Rescue Group Seeks to Find Missing Miner

MULLENS, W. Va., (AP)—Rescue crews dug through tons of rock today in search of a missing miner believed to have been killed with two fellow workers in a coal mine about fall.

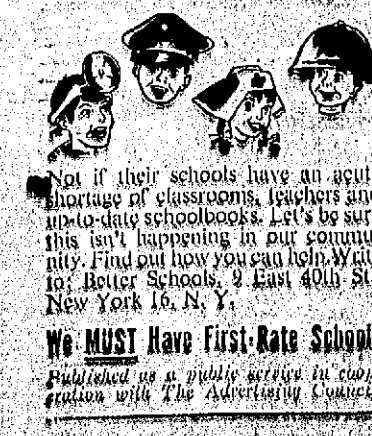

Bodies of two victims have been recovered. The search continued for the third miner, Arlie Davis, 50, of Herndon Heights.

Location of the search is 4,000 feet inside the Premier, Pocahontas Co., Tierney No. 1 mine at Herndon, 10 miles from here. The accident occurred yesterday afternoon.

Inside the mine with the rescue teams today were state and local mine inspectors and Crawford Wilson, chief of the State Department of Mines.

The body of Paul D. Kratsch, 43, Princeton, was recovered early today from under a layer of rock approximately eight feet thick. Last night, rescue workers lifted out the body of Arnold T. Wingo, 51, South Mullens.

State Refused Information on NAACP

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas president of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People says that making public the names of NAACP state officers would expose them to reprisals and intimidation.

Mrs. L. C. Bates of Little Rock refused to divulge the names and answer certain other questions about the organization. Atty. Gen. Bruce Bennett said yesterday.

Bennett said he plans to ask Pulaski Chancery Court today for an order directing Mrs. Bates to disclose information he requested. Suits have been filed by Bennett. Continued on Page Two

Believes Animals More Predictable Than People

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—"Animals are easier to deal with than people because they are more predictable," said Fred Birkner, who operates a television school for our furred and feathered friends.

A video collage for animals and birds. Yes, indeed, and pray why not. If a politician or a movie star feels he needs a few lessons before going on TV, why shouldn't a horse, a boa constrictor or a parakeet?

At his Chateau Theatrical Animals' School on West 46th Street, Birkner conditions his winged and four-footed scholars to the sights and sounds of a television studio.

"This is to remove their nervousness," he explained.

A donkey sits patiently listening to a record playing canned laughter and applause. A horse is led around to get him accustomed to TV cables writhing about the floor. A monkey stares inquisitively as a dummy camera is wheeled up to his face for a closeup. Clum,

Ike Discusses Budget, Then Goes Golfing

NEWPORT, R. I., (AP) President Eisenhower discussed federal budget problems for 45 minutes today when he went off to a golf course still soggy from an overnight rain.

The President and Budget Director Prevyal Brundage met at the vacation White House immediately after Brundage arrived from Washington.

Also on hand for the conference was Brundage's new deputy, Maurice H. Stans, who was sworn into office yesterday after resigning as deputy postmaster general.

Brundage turned down a request for a news conference. He sent word to reporters there was nothing he could say at this time regarding planning for federal spending during the fiscal year starting next July 1.

Mediators Try to End Phone Walkout

NEW YORK (AP)—A federal mediator today conferred with chief negotiators for both sides in an attempt to bring about a settlement of a strike of 23,000 telephone equipment installers in 44 states and the District of Columbia.

Commissioner Walter A. Maguire, of the Mediation and Conciliation Service, said "I will have to wait developments from our talks" before he could say whether there would be a resumption of full-scale negotiations.

The strikers, members of the Communications Workers of America, yesterday threw picket lines around telephone buildings from coast to coast, keeping an estimated 150,000 operators from their jobs.

Federal mediators managed to get the two sides together yesterday, but no progress was reported.

The CWA's national director, Joseph E. Dunn, called the strike 100 per cent effective and added: "It will be a long strike unless the company meets our just demands. The situation at the moment is bleak."

The American Telephone Telegraph Co. said the walkout's effect on telephone service generally was slight.

The company reported delays in placing long-distance calls during peak-load periods. It said, however, that by 3 p. m. yesterday switchboards in the 14 long-distance division buildings throughout the country were getting 3 to 100 per cent coverage by supervisory workers and long-distance operators who crossed the picket lines.

About 90 per cent of local telephone service is fully automatic. The company said service was interrupted in a few small localities that are still without dial service. There were no reports of disorders.

At issue are wages, travel allowances and whether a new contract should run for one year or two.

Installers' wages range from $1.39 to $2.30 an hour. Rates vary in different areas. The union has asked for a one-year contract with an hourly increase of 15 cents, plus 3 cents in travel pay and other fringe benefits.

Western electric, manufacturing arm of ATT, has offered wage increases of 6 to 12 cents an hour and improved fringe benefits in a two-year pact, with a wage-reopen clause after one year.

The CWA also struck the Ohio Bell Telephone Co., which provides service for most of that state.

Teachers Set Up Plans for Meeting

The Executive Committee of the Hempstead County Teachers Association met Saturday morning, in the County Supervisor's office and purpose of the meeting as outlined by John Maxwell of Spring Hill, president of the organization, was to secure a state of officers to be presented at the first regular meeting, to plan the year's programs, and to set up the calendar for the year.

Members present at this meeting were: John W. Maxwell and Scott Key, Spring Hill; Milton Peebles, Saratoga; Mrs. Betty Kane Foster, Blevins; Mrs. Frank Mason, Hope; Mrs. James McLarty, Hope; Elmer Brown, County Supervisor.

The Program Committee, headed by Milton H. Peebles of Saratoga, designated that the type of programs be varied for interest. It was decided that the October meeting might be a panel discussion of the GACE Report. The programs for the November and March meetings will be of the workshop type with interest groups divided into subject fields. The final meeting in April will be a social meeting.

Army Seizes Control of Thailand

By MURRAY FROMSON

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP)—The army's strong man, Gen. Thanarat, surrounded Bangkok with tanks and seized control of the government today "in the name of the people." The ousted pro-Western Premier, P. Phibunsongram, who has led the government since 1947, was reported fleeing to Malaysia.

Not a shot was fired as the army commander in chief took power, with the reported consent of young King Bhumibol Aduladej, two days before a scheduled meeting in Bangkok of the military advisers of the anti-Communist Southeast Asia Treaty Organization.

Sarit said he acted in the interest of the people who, he claimed, were dissatisfied with the government's handling of last February's elections in which Phibunsongram retained his premiership by a slim majority.

Sarit insisted at a news conference: "I have nothing to do with politics but took the action I did to force the government of Phibunsongram to resign. It was necessary for me to do this."

It is believed Sarit acted quickly to save his own position as commander of the army.

Sarit told newsmen he wanted a new government as soon as possible but did not know yet what form it would take. He consulted with his lawyers to determine whether to dissolve the National Assembly. Asked if he would become the new Premier Sarit replied that "many people want to be premier."

Miller was released on bond, but was picked up again last night on an open charge, police said.

Detectives O. A. Allen and E. L. Grace said Miller told them he and Sullivan met in a Little Rock residential section and there was a fight after Sullivan "jumped on" him.

Negro Solon Calls Problem Catastrophe

NEW YORK (AP)—Rep. Adam Clayton Powell (D-NY) today characterized the Arkansas integration situation as "a major catastrophe for the United States abroad."

He said, however, he thought President Eisenhower was doing "the best he can short of using federal troops."

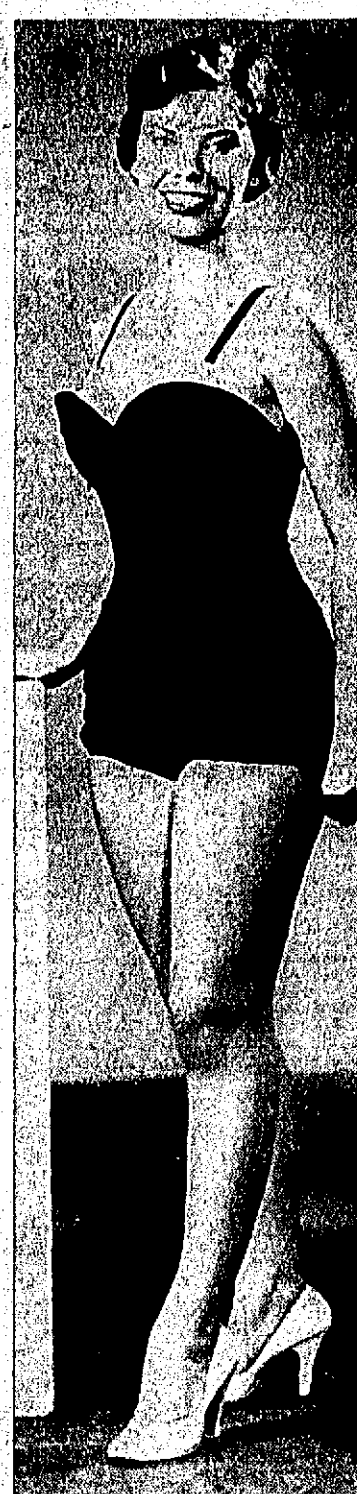

Powell, a Negro clergyman, crossed party lines to support Eisenhower's candidacy in 1956. He returned today from a European trip. He had been surveying the attitude of governments and trade unions on control and new provisions of pension and welfare funds as a member of the House Education and Labor Committee.

The Harlem congressman said the Soviet citizens had not abroad felt their country had won another battle for communism as a result of the Arkansas situation.

Powell said he would introduce legislation that would bring the National Guard more under federal control and wipe out segregation ranks. He added that the regular armed services were not completely integrated.

Miner Accidentally Electrocuted

FORT SMITH, (AP)—Coal miner James Reano, 44, of Jany Lind, was accidentally electrocuted shortly after reporting to work in the Peerless Company mine at Excelsior this morning.

A witness said Reano was killed when he touched a machine which apparently had been electrically charged through a short circuit.

Hearing Friday Unless Situation Is Settled

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The federal government was preparing about 200 subpoenas today for witnesses in its case against Gov. Orval Faubus' intervention with Central High School integration.

A court source said the subpoenas were being prepared for the scheduled hearing Friday on the government's request for a preliminary injunction against Faubus' use of the guard to hold back Negro students.

Meanwhile, Rep. Brooks Hays, acting in his role as intermediary between the federal government and Gov. Faubus, had another talk scheduled with the governor at the mansion today.

Hays is the Arkansas Democrat who helped arrange Saturday's meeting between President Eisenhower and Faubus.

He flew to Little Rock, from Texas yesterday, saw Faubus, and told reporters he will meet with him again today. He said: "A solution cannot be postponed much longer. The hopes of the people of the country, which have been built up, simply cannot be frustrated."

Somebody has to give in to dissolve the impasse in Little Rock, Hays said, posing the question, "But how to give in without surrendering?"

Who will surrender? "I don't know," he replied. He added: "There is no occasion for pessimism simply because we have not tied up this package."

The contingent of National Guards had been reduced to about a dozen today. There were even fewer spectators on hand as classes started without incident.

Little Rock today is one big question mark.

Will Faubus withdraw the guardsmen from the high school within the next few days and permit Negroes to enroll? Many people believe so.

Or will he sit tight until Friday then respond to the summons to appear in U.S. District Court, and let the federal government issue and implement ordering him to stop interfering any longer with the integration of the school? Others believe this is Faubus' strategy.

The governor's mansion is wrapped in silence.

Maglie Feels Yanks Could Sweep Series

By NORMAN MILLER

NEW YORK (UP) — Sal Maglie, who ought to know the National League about as well as anyone, feels the Yankees should have little trouble beating Milwaukee in the World Series — provided that the Braves can hang on and win the pennant.

As a matter of fact, Old Sal believes that if the Yankees beat Warren Spahn of the Braves in the first game, they'd have an excellent chance to make it a four-game sweep.

"The way I look at it, we're a much better ball club overall than the Braves," said the 40-year-old right hander, disdaining the ball-players' customary taboo about discussing the Series until the pennant has been clinched.

"We're stronger from any angle you look at it — pitching, hitting or defense," he went on.

Maglie, who pitched for three National League champions during his nine seasons with the Giants and Dodgers, is not eligible to play in this year's Series because he was acquired by the Yankees after the Aug. 31 eligibility deadline. "The Yankee" thinks that the deep left-center field contour of Yankee Stadium and the lefty-righty makeup of the Milwaukee batting order are factors weighing heavily in the Yankees' favor.

According to Sal's calculations, if the Yankees and Bobby Shantz in the first two games at the stadium, they should pretty well neutralize Milwaukee's left-handed hitting strength, furnished largely by Ed Matthews, Wes Covington and young Bob Hazle. "Joe Adcock doesn't pull the ball very well," Maglie analyzed. "The Stadium isn't his type of ball park. Red Schoendienst isn't as apt to hurt you anywhere nearly as much hitting right-handed in this park as left-handed, either."

"Of course, Hank Aaron is the one guy who'll be tough to handle in any park," Maglie conceded. "He's a real great hitter and it doesn't make

REA Spokesman Again Raps Ike

By United Press

A spokesman for REA co-ops has renewed the argument over the Eisenhower administration's handling of the rural electrification administration.

The spokesman is Clyde Ellis, general manager of the National Rural Electric Co-operative Association. Ellis aims his criticism at a new USDA procedure for handling REA loans.

Under this new policy, REA administrator David Hamill is no longer the man with the last word in passing a rural electrification and telephone loans. If a loan application calls for more than $500,000, Hamill now must clear his decision with higher officials in USDA's credit services division.

Negro to Die for Slaying Postman

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Leo Lee, 53-year-old Negro, today was formally sentenced to die in the electric chair on Nov. 15 for the murder of a Negro postman.

Pulaski Circuit Judge William J. Kirby passed sentence after overruling a motion for a new trial filed by E. D. Herrod, the defense attorney. Herrod is expected to appeal the case to the Arkansas Supreme Court — an action that would delay the execution. William H. Smith Jr., was wounded fatally by a bullet as he sat in an automobile with a Negro woman last Dec. 26. The jury imposed the death sentence after Lee's recent trial for murder.

much difference to him whether a right-hander or a lefty is pitching. I think he'll be the toughest of the Milwaukee hitters to stop.

"Turning his attention to the Braves' pitching staff, Maglie tabbed lefty Spahn as the one who could give the Yankees the most trouble.

"He's experienced and he's smart," Sal commented. "He really knows how to pitch." Maglie added that Spahn would enjoy the same left-handed advantages as the Yankee southpaws.

When it comes to defense, Maglie conceded the Braves equality only at two positions. He feels that Johnny Logan of the Braves can hold his own with Gil McDougald and Schoendienst as good a fielder as the Yankee second baseman.

"But if you match man for man at any of the other positions, you have to give the Yankees the defensive edge," Maglie maintained.

Manager Casey Stengel may not be able to use Maglie's arm in the series, but there's nothing to stop him from exploiting Sal's brain. The crafty old-timer is a walking encyclopedia of information on National League hitters.

Stengel would like to have Maglie sitting beside him on the Yankee bench during the series, but "Ineligible" series players are not permitted to do so.

"He'd be more valuable than I am," Stengel quipped as he wishfully mulled over the thought.

Daylight savings time, an irritation for the farmer and the blessing of city people, is not a new idea. When Benjamin Franklin was living in France in the 18th century, he suggested "fast time." animal is an individual, and has to be taught as an individual. "A dog can be conditioned for a show in half an hour. But birds are very nervous. It took me a week to train a South American lark to appear in a color film — and all it had to do was sit on a perch.

"The cat is the hardest domestic animal to teach, not because it is unintelligent, but because it doesn't like being dominated and told to do something on cue. Insects, of course, are the worst of all — except trained fleas."

One of his more temperamental subjects was Baron Wolfshmidt, a wolfhound who was supposed to stand upright while posing for a vodka ad. The Baron, who is lazy refused to stay upright until Birkner thought of putting a mirror in front of him so the dog could see himself. After that it was hard to get him back down on all fours.

"In my experience," remarked Birkner, "few animals are bad actors. They are natural hams; however, and all they need is a little training — then they start acting like human stars."

His top actor is Mohammed, a white horse who has been in the profession for more than 15 years and is currently appearing with Ethel Merman in "Happy Hunting." He has even learned in television appearances to turn and look for the red light of the camera — and give it his better profile.

Animals do just about as well financially, if not better, than two-legged actors. A cat or mouse gets $35 for a walk-on part, a boa constrictor up to $450 for a creep-on role.

Blames Negro Group for Game Transfer

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Rep. F. Edward Hebert (D-La.) today said the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People was behind the transfer of the Army-Tulane football game from New Orleans to West Point.

"He blasted the Army as 'a full partner in the campaign against the South.'"

The game, scheduled for Nov. 16 and the target of criticism by a Pennsylvania congressman, was transferred yesterday. Secretary of the Army Wilber F. Brucker told Hebert the transfer was agreed upon by both schools. Brucker said Louisiana's segregation law was the reason.

Hebert, however, said there was nothing different now from the time the game was originally scheduled. He said he personally warned the Army that the NAACP would try to have the site changed.

"Unfortunately," he said, "our friends at Tulane have rather compromised the issue by agreeing to transfer the game."

One Tulane spokesman said the transfer might mean a revenue loss as high as $50,000 for Tulane. The Louisiana law, passed in 1956, bans racially mixed competition and integrated seating. Brucker said it was decided that all seats sold by Army would have to conform.

There are no Negroes on the Army football team, but some cadets at West Point are Negro. Rep. James C. Fulton (D-Pa.) protested the game recently to President Eisenhower.

The information about the NAACP was requested in connection with the legal action. Mrs. Bates told Bennett she could not give names and addresses of NAACP officials "because of the current climate of opinion in Arkansas, hostile to persons working for desegregation."

She said her refusal to answer that and other questions is privileged by the Fourteenth Amendment to the U. S. Constitution, in Arkansas, hostile to persons shall be denied their rights without due process of law.

Bennett said he needed the information to question NAACP members about the length of time the organization has been operating in Arkansas.

Bennett said he did not believe the Fourteenth Amendment was pertinent to the question involved. Mrs. Bates did tell Bennett that the NAACP had these 27 branches in Arkansas:

Altamir, Ashley County, Brinkley, Augusta, Bearden, Camden, College Station, Crittenden County, Dermott, De Witt, Drew County, El Dorado, Forrest City, Fort Smith, Hot Springs, Jackson, Jonesboro, Lake Village, Little Rock, Malvern, Nashville, North Little Rock, Pine Bluff, Stuttgart, Sweet Home, Twin City and Warren.

Gratitude Is Less, Legion Is Reminded

By JAMES DEVLIN

Atlantic City, N. J. (AP) — The American Legion today heard a report that "the nation's feelings of obligation and gratitude toward veterans seems to have lessened to a noticeable degree."

The report came from Harvey V. Higley, administrator of veterans affairs, as the Legion turned from parading to the opening session of its 39th annual convention. Higley called in a prepared address for establishment of an official or legislative policy on the care of sick and disabled non-service-connected veterans — those whose disabilities were not incurred in military service.

"If the policy shall be not to take care of the non-service-connected, this should be frankly stated," he said, "so that others — states, counties and cities — may take up the load."

Sod-Busting Contest Gets Underway

PEEBLES, Ohio (AP) — The biggest sod-busting contest in the world got under way today with the staccato fanfare of tractor exhausts.

A rain-softened, 2,500-acre tract near this Adams County village is the arena. On it are pitted the best farmers in the United States and 14 other nations.

Officially called the 1957 World's Conservation and Plowing Contest, the event also is being drummed as the "World's Fair of Agriculture."

By its close Friday evening, sponsors of the event predict total attendance will hit 250,000.

This is America's first time to host the five-year-old event, which started in Canada in 1953.

Tractors are supplying all the horsepower and scores of arm machinery manufacturers are exhibiting their wares in an effort to convince farmers to become even more mechanized.

Together with other commercial, educational and conservation displays, the exhibits cover more than 100 acres.

After the Ohio state contests today will be the national contests tomorrow and the world contests Thursday and Friday.

So far America has yet to win a world title.

DOROTHY DIX

Freeloading Son Wants to Marry on Parents' Money

Dear Dorothy Dix: My 25-year-old brother is going with a divorcee 15 years older and beginning to talk about marriage. He has never been able to support himself; how can he take care of a wife? Our parents have always given him money to augment his small earnings, and though he can't make money, he sure can spend it. We don't want to take over the support of a family. What can we do?

PENELOPE
Dear Penelope: I suggest that your mother have a serious talk with the would-be bride and explain the economic facts of life to her. Your brother has unquestionably drawn a pretty rosy picture of his financial situation. Your mother can repeat it. Have your mother make it clear that she will not contribute one cent to the support of her son and daughter-in-law. If she's convincing enough, the marriage will not take place.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I have a scholarship to take a business course. However, one of my instructors would be a woman with whom my husband had an affair some time ago. I hate to pass up this chance, but I wonder how I'll feel and act if I have to study Understatement: the altitude of Belize, seaport capital of British Honduras in South America, is one foot.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I'm going steady with a lady in her late thirties. I'm in my early forties. I have asked her to marry me, and though all signs point to her willingness, she can't seem to put her thoughts into words. Neither of us has ever been married. My financial position is good, and I know we'd be happy.

MR. X
Dear Mr. X: Since she seems to have difficulty saying "yes," you must be a bit more decisive. Try saying "We've been going together quite a while and I feel we don't have much time to waste. I'm going for the marriage license tomorrow." If she has any objections, she'll let you know them.

Things Just Happen at Wedding Time

FRANT, England (UP)—It might have been the nervous tension. It might have been the "beastly tight" regimental uniform.

But, whatever it was, it put out Capt. Richard Vickers, 29, for a quarter of an hour at his own wedding.

It was a picture book wedding. The bride was lovely Gail Bradley Roberts, radiant in white. The bridegroom, an equerry to Queen Elizabeth was resplendent in the braided, embroidered, full dress uniform of the Royal Tank Regiment. The Rev. D. D. B. Brivers-Wilson, in solemn robes, had just placed the ring on the bride's finger and was about to pronounce the couple man

Pleads Innocent to Kidnaping

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz. (AP)—A Pin Bluff, Ark., youth pleaded innocent here yesterday to a federal charge of kidnaping a 15-year-old Fordyce, Ark., girl last Friday from her sister's home at Fordyce.

Ronald Earl Hayes, 20, was held under $25,000 bond for extradition to Arkansas after appearing before U. S. Commissioner Paul Pers Hayes was seized near here Sunday after a 17-mile car chase. Patrol Sgt. Crawford, the girl he is accused of abducting, was found with him unharmed.

Police said that the chase, with speeds up to 120 miles per hour, ended when Miss Crawford shut off the ignition of the fleeing car and tossed the keys into the back seat.

The girl told officers that Hayes forced her to accompany him to Arizona after she refused to marry him.

and wife when it happened.

Vickers fainted. "I whispered to Mrs. Vickers when her husband fainted that it was all right," the clergyman said, "but I am not sure that was right."

The rector announced another hymn. The limp and pale bridegroom was helped to the vestry and brandy was administered.

Fifteen minutes later the wedding was completed.

Snead Figures He'll Win National Open

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF DALLAS (AP) — Sam Snead, who says he wants to win a tournament year until he's 50, then retire, took the one for 1957 yesterday with the widest margin. Anywhere since 1955 — 10 strokes in the 40,000 Dallas Open.

And the colorful old slammer also said he was going to win the National Open — the only tournament that has eluded him in his 21 years of campaigning — before he's 50.

Admitting to 45 yesterday after he had wound up with a 3 under-par 68 for a 284 total over 72 holes and grabbed the $9,000 first money Snead said he figured he still had enough good golf to finally snare the National Open. "Putting like I have in this tournament
I could win it every time," he said.

Snead was winning his 96th tournament according to the PGA record book when he took the Dallas Open.

Snead went into fourth place among the money winners although he has participated in only 12 of the 33 tournaments this year. He has earned $28,280.83.

Snead's victory by 10 strokes was the longest lead of the rear.
The best previous was Ken Vanturi's 5 stroke triumph at Milwaukee. The widest margin of which the PGA has a record is the 13 strokes Gene Littler won by at Las Vegas in 1955.

Snead entered the final round yesterday with an 8 stroke lead compelled through his record-equaling 60 in the second round and his 60 in the third. The latter gave him 124 for 36 holes and that tied the best ever done.

As the closest challengers, Earl Stewart, Dallas, and Al Besselink, Grossingers, N. Y., who were in a tie for second with 304 to Snead's 308, faltered. The Slammer rolled along shooting at par, because I thought that would be all that was needed.

The result was that Snead not only won by a long margin but three fellows charged out of the

Braves Regain Half Game by Licking Phils

By Ed WILKS
Of The Associated Press

What was it Manager Fred Haney said in his "wee bit of a pep talk" with the Milwaukee Braves?

It didn't last long, just about three minutes before last night's game with Philadelphia. Haney later said he mentioned that a 2 1/2-game lead was nothing to get all choked up about. In fact, it was a real surprise what with five regulars injured and out of the lineup at one time this season. He didn't mention, apparently, that the lead was 8 1/2 just 12 days before.

"Now we're through with all that," Haney said he said, "and all we have to do is go out and swing those bats."

A nice little speech, but a bit out of character for Haney.

"How much of a so-and-so salary can you so-and-so afford?"
would be more like it.

Whatever Haney said, it worked.
The Braves burst loose for 14 hits and breezed to a 5-1 victory over the Phillies that ended a losing streak at three games and padded their National League lead to three games over the St. Louis.

Brooklyn's third-place Dodgers were a somewhat bedraggled bunch of "contenders" after last night's 3-2 defeat in 10 innings at Cincinnati.

The American League race stayed put. The first-place New York Yankees were idle and Chicago's second-place White Sox were rained out in their last scheduled appearance at Washington this season.

The Braves got back in business behind Bob Buhl. The black-browed right-hander won his eighth in a row for a 17-y record with his first complete game in four tries since Aug. 9.

Buhl permitted eight hits, but the Braves tagged southpaw Harvey Haddix for eight and a 4-0 lead within five frames. Del Rice cracked his eighth home run and double for two runs, and Johnny Logan was making his second start since being sidelined Aug. 18 with a sore shoulder.

The Dodgers, who had taken two of three at Milwaukee before losing the two-game series at Cincinnati, were done in by Joe Taylor, who drove in all three Redlegs runs with two homers, and a bases-loaded walk from right-handed reliever Ed Roebuck in the 10th. The Brooks intentionally walked pinch hitter
load the bases for Taylor.

Johnny Klippstein, 7-11, was the winner. Southpaw Johnny Podres (12-8) was the loser.

St. Andrew Lodge No. 43 will meet tonight at 7:30 at Hicks
Funeral Home.

Latest Odds on Robinson, Basilio Fight

NEW YORK (UP) — As Ray
Robinson and Carmen Basilio resumed training today, lively tickets sales indicated a gate of at least $700,000 for Monday's fight, and latest betting odds belittled Sugar Ray's stamina.

Harry Markson, managing director of the international Boxing Club, said he was confident now that the gate would be at least $700,000, despite the slow-down of sales during Robinson's nine-day dispute with the IBC over television last month.

Meanwhile, lack of confidence in middleweight champion Robinson's stamina was disclosed in a detailed odds list that was made public by odds-man Eddie Borden. The list showed that only in the first five rounds is Sugar Ray accorded the same chance as welterweight ruler Basilio.

The list divides the 15-round each. And odds are given against the chances of each boxer winning on a knockout in each third.

It is 5-1 against each winning in the first five rounds. But it's 7-1 against Sugar Ray registering a victory from the sixth through the 10th round. However, in that same period it's only 5-1 against Basilio.

In the last five rounds of the bout, it's 10-1 against a Robinson win, and only 4-1 against Carmen.
Basilio is favored at 8-5 to win the middleweight crown from Sugar Ray, in any fashion. It's 2-1 that the fight doesn't last its scheduled 15 rounds. It's 3-1 against Basilio winning by a decision, and 6-1 against Robinson taking a verdict.

Dulles, U N Delegates to Discuss Tests

By WILLIAM N. OATIS

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. — Secretary of State Dulles meets U. N. delegates to the U. N. today to outline a policy of working for disarmament while continuing nuclear tests.

The disarmament issue will be one of the major questions before the Assembly session opening tomorrow. But the United States made clear it will not let its atomic arsenal rust while the U. N. debates disarmament.

The U. S. Defense Department and the Atomic Energy Commission announced in Washington that if the absence of a safeguarded disarmament agreement a new series of nuclear tests will begin next April in the Pacific.

Asst. Secretary of State Francis O. Wilcox told a New York news conference the United States could not stop the tests unless there was an agreement to stop making bombs — guaranteed by inspection. "Our superiority in both the quality and quantity of nuclear weapons is our main insurance against aggression," he said in a speech to the American Association for the United Nations.

The Assembly's debate on disarmament will be based on a report of the 5½-month London talks of the U. N. Disarmament subcommittee.

The talks recessed Sept. 8 with the safeguards demanded by the Soviet Union still balking at other subcommittee members — Britain, Canada, France and the United States.

Wilcox said the deadlock resulted from a sudden Soviet shift from comparative reasonableness to extreme rigidity. But he expressed hope the Assembly's debate "will induce the U. S. S. R. to relax its rigid position and reinforce our efforts to move toward agreement."

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko said on his arrival late Saturday that in the Assembly, "the first problem is disarmament."

"We will do everything possible," he declared, "to move forward in the settlement of this problem right now, provided all parties show a proper desire."

Prince Wan Waihayakon of Thailand, the Assembly's new special representative on the problem of Hungary, said he will ask Gromyko this week for exploratory talks.

The prince, retiring Assembly president, told a reporter he will see the Russian after turning over the chair to the president of the new session to be chosen in a secret ballot tomorrow.

He also said he would try to see Hungarian Foreign Minister Imre Horvath, here for the session, and later hoped to go to Moscow and Budapest.

The assembly Saturday condemned Russia for intervening in Hungary and assign Wan to seek the withdrawal of Soviet troops that put down last fall's Hungarian rebellion.

THE CANVAS DAGGER

by HELEN REILLY

CHAPTER XX

Lisa Hall, Channing Hall's wife was in her early thirties. She was beautiful, tall and lithe and dark. She said her husband had a cold. McKee said they were investigating the death of a man named Grant Melville, a portrait painter who had been killed by a fall from his studio on Tenth Street a month or so earlier.

McKee had been right about the relationship, Tom Gillespie was Channing Hall's nephew. Mrs. Hall said her husband was very fond of him and she told him what he already knew, that Tom Gillespie was writing Grant Melville's biography. "He became interested in the man, I suppose," and that Tom as up at a house Melville had owned on the Cave gathering material for the book. Tom a writer by profession Oh no, not really although he had been in public before he went into the Army, but he would try his hand at anything.

"Your called Mr. Gillespie at his hotel today, Mrs. Hall."

She didn't express any surprise that McKee should know of her phone call, which would have been a natural procedure. She said that yes indeed she had called Tom, two or three times. Her husband wanted to see Tom about something and had asked her to get hold of him. But he was evidently still up on the Cape.

He said he was sorry to have troubled her, that they would talk to Mr. Gillespie when he returned to New York, and he hoped Mr. Hall would soon recover from his cold — troublesome things with a high nuisance value, weren't they — and left the apartment.

Back at the office he pulled the phone towards him, called Fernandez, the chief medical examiner and his own close personal friend, and put his request. Hall an hour later Fernandez called back. Smith Dawlish, Channing Hall's personal physician, was a friend of his and he'd done Dawlish a couple of favors, but even at that he'd had trouble getting it out of Dawlish.

Channing Hall was suffering from a good deal more than a cold. On the eve of a flight to Europe, where he was to have remained for several months trouble-shooting for a Senate committee, Hall had had a stroke while he was at his desk cleaning up paper work preparatory to departure. His wife had found him slumped down unconscious in his chair, his whole left side paralyzed. He had been a very sick man, he was slowly recovering. It was being kept extremely quiet, which was understandable with a man of his prominence.

Channing Hall's stroke had come at around noon on Oct. 3. The Scotsman didn't need to glance at the calendar. Grant Melville had been sent to his death are candidates for the presidency of the new session. U. S. and British sources said yesterday they thought Munro had the majority of votes.

late in the afternoon of the same day.

He hung up, threw himself back in his chair and stared at a stretch of blank wall, his inner gaze on a beautiful woman with a heart-shaped face, cloudy black hair and long liquid eyes. Lisa Hall was almost 20 years younger than her husband. He sat up. There might be nothing in it. He might be backing up the wrong tree. The barking mustn't be heard. The greatest care would have to be used. The servants would have been instructed that went without saying, but there would probably be others. What he needed was a photograph of the late Grant Melville. He leaned forward and pressed his buzzer.

Meanwhile, for Sarah in Cornwall the fool's paradise in which she had been living had ceased to exist. She had been thrust into outer darkness and the gates slammed shut. After that disastrous interview with Carney following her identification of Dennert, as soon as they were alone she confidently expected Tom to speak, to explain why he had dropped, recognizing Dennert coming over on the plane from Boston last Saturday morning, and why he had denied knowing Dennert was in the stone house — because that was the reason why he had cut down through the grounds on that first afternoon. Tom did other of the kind.

When the escorting troop left them at the Tasks they didn't immediately go into the house. In the light from behind the drawn shades his face was somber, thoughtful.

He said slowly looking around through the dimness and keeping his voice low, "You had to tell Carney about Grant Melville, I suppose. Don't mention him to anyone else, let it stop there. You never saw Melville alive, have no interest in his death. It was unfortunate that you had to identify Dennert."

He went on instructing her. Sarah listened in silence, terror flickering at the coldness that wrapped her in an icy cocoon. Dennert had been killed with a bullet of some sort, and Tom had been carrying a shotgun Saturday afternoon.

Tom broke off. "Sarah — what is it, what's the matter?" "The matter, Tom?" She gave a little laugh. "Nothing's the matter, dear. I feel like bursting into song. Why not? Such a charming day, such a delightful discovery about Mr. Dennert and the stone house. She took her hands out of his and walked quickly along the porch and into the house.

"Here you are — at last," Carrolta exclaimed.

Arab Attack Seems to Have Diminished

By WALTER LOGAN

Jerusalem dispatches said today the chance of an Arab attack against Israel appears to have diminished for the present despite new fiery statements from Syria.

However two dynamiting incidents heightened Middle East tension.

Two sticks of dynamite exploded near the Soviet embassy in Damascus today. Officials said one person was arrested. No casualties nor damage was reported.

Dynamite was hurled Sunday night in Lebanon at the offices of a right wing newspaper Al Hayat and the Armenian anti-Communist party. "Material damage" but no casualties was reported.

The Israeli sources noted that Premier David Ben-Gurion is on an extended vacation, spending his time reading philosophy in the evenings and doing yogi-like handstands on the beach while sunbathing during the day.

Foreign Minister Golda Meir and Maj. Gen. Moshe Dayan, the Israeli chief of staff, were abroad. Israeli government circles said Israel has not requested new guarantees by the United States against Arab aggression.

The sources said Israel also does not intend to ask such guarantees in the near future despite large quantities of Soviet arms streaming into Syria. The belief was that the Eisenhower Doctrine is sufficient protection against any Syrian aggression.

In Damascus, Maj. Gen. Afif Bizri, the Syrian chief of staff, repeated his previous assertions the United States is "drawing up plans to attack Syria."

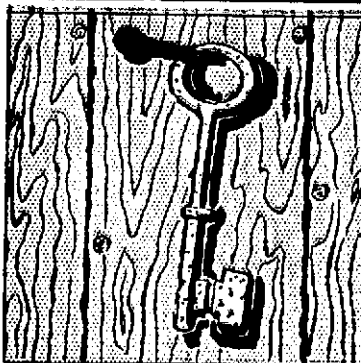

Bizri told a news conference Sunday that if the United States did not attack Syria personally "he might use others" for such a move.

He said all Arab countries, including Jordan, would be on Syria's side in the event of aggression against Syria.

Bizri repeated previous charges that Turkish troops were massing along the Syrian border and estimated there were one armored and two infantry divisions involved. He also repeated the charge that five U. S. warships approached the northern shore of Syria last week in "demonstration of force."

Trial by jury was one of the main points in the Magna Charta which King John signed in the year of 1215.

The key to the most famous prison in the world, the French Bastille—a prison which no longer exists—is kept in George Washington's home at Mount Vernon, Virginia. The great iron key was presented to Washington in 1790 by the French minister as a gift from the French people, to show they too had cast off the rule of their king. The fall of the Bastille, on July 14, 1790, marked the beginning of the French Revolution.

Man Tops All in Chance of Beating Odds

By SIDNEY C. MOODY JR.

MORRISTOWN, N. J. — You think you've beaten the odds?

Shot a hole in one? Drawn a perfect bridge hand or run the four-minute mile?

Then consider the William Patrick Bestons.

Today Boston will go to Memorial Hospital to bring home his wife and their 12th child — and 12th daughter — born Thursday.

Odds makers don't make book on such a rarity, an doctors said only that the chances of having an even dozen children of the same sex are "slimmer than slim."

But Boston knew better. He never doubted for a minute that the baby would be a girl.

"After the first four or five children, we never even thought of having a boy. We just worried what we'd name the girl."

Naming gets harder each time. Names already taken were Patricia, Eileen, Regina, Carol, Jo-ann, Gertrude, De-lore, Betty Lou, Catherine and Levinia. The first daughter died in infancy.

After thinking a day, the Bestons called the newest Madonna Grace.

"Patricia is 12 and the oldest. But we have birthdays around the clock and it's not easy to keep the ages straight. Just figure that one is 14 months older than the next," Boston said.

How does it feel to wear the only trousers in a family of 13? "Fine," said Boston. "I think of all the attention I get."

Boston, 46, is a night watchman at the Morris County Courthouse. He lives with his family in a sixroom apartment in Pocahontas Village, a low-income housing project.

The Bestons have one bedroom and divide up the girls in three other bedrooms. "They don't stay there, though. In two minutes they've all crawled into one bed together," Boston said.

Food is the biggest item. "What's a bottle of ketchup in our house?" It's gone in one meal," he said.

"Friends and relatives have helped out some with clothes," said Boston, who earns less than $100 a week. "But we're getting by."

Would they like a boy in the crowd?

"No," said 41-year-old Mrs. Boston. "It would hardly be fair placing a boy among all those girls. He would have a terrible time."

And Boston thinks there won't be any more girls either. "But then I've been saying that the last two or three years."

Asks Church to Help Solve Race Problem

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Rep. Brooks Hays (D-Ark.) said that church groups should make it a priority project to help solve the racial problem.

Hays, president of the Southern Baptist Convention, arranged the conference between President Eisenhower and Gov. Orval Faubus of Arkansas at the Little Rock school crisis. He came to Dallas for a round of speeches to church groups after the conference at Newport, R. I.

"Baptists should not shy away from the racial problem," he said. He also urged church members not to challenge ministers who take a stand on social problems.

Hays said he feels the conference between President Eisenhower and Gov. Faubus should prove of great value.

"It, in my opinion, was certainly worthwhile," he said. "However, without the understanding of the President and Gov. Faubus for the other's point of view, hopes of progress would be less bright."

Confidential Trial May End Today

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The six-week trial of Confidential magazine is expected to end today with the case going to the jury.

Prosecutor William Ritz was scheduled to finish the arguments by noon with his rebuttal to the defense argument of Atty. Arthur Crowley, who concluded last Friday.

The instructions to the jury of six men and six women by Superior Judge Herbert V. Walker may require two hours. If those arrangements are followed the jury should get the case by nightfall.

The jurors have heard about

Patient Quota Described as Meritorious

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — University of Arkansas President John Tyler Caldwell today described 1957 patient quota and welfare medical laws as "meritorious," but he said they impose some expensive procedures on the Medical Center.

Dr. Caldwell, speaking to 450 students at the Medical Center, said that the laws make it more difficult for the center to "fulfill our obligations as Little Rock, 400,000 words — 2,000 pages — of testimony and an estimated 200,000 rods of arguments.

Confidential and Whisper magazines, Fred and Marjorie Atteide and their Hollywood Research, Inc., and Publishers Distributing Corp., are on trial on charges of conspiracy to commit criminal libel and to publish obscene material.

Dozens of names of Hollywood celebrities figured in the spy trial but only two, actress Maureen O'Hara and singer Dorothy Dandridge, testified. They denied that articles about them in Confidential were true.

North Little Rock and Pulaski County have not agreed to set up a certification procedure for patients in excess of quotas."

The new law sets up quotas for cities and counties and provides that care for any patients in excess of quotas must be paid by the county or city involved. Pulaski County, Little Rock and North Little Rock have been hardest hit by the new system.

The university president said that the law imposed on the center some procedures which are complex and expensive and not fully in accord with the objectives of the medical center.

He said that the center is fulfilling its function to train doctors in that it has 6.1 freshman students per 100,000 population as compared to the national average of 4.6. He said this figure places Arkansas in a tie with North and South Dakota for fourth place among the states.
